The Chair

Stella Kechedzhi

Stella's AIESEC journey started exactly 3 years ago in Saint-Petersburg, Russia. At that moment she was an ambitious student with a big passion to everything new and exciting, but lost somewhere between routine studies. During these 3 years in AIESEC she met people from more than 100 countries, worked on range of global issues, made her own impact in society and people's development. Did she know 3 years ago that she can do this? For sure, not :) Year ago she moved to Tallinn to work for AIESEC in Estonia and make her change for Estonian youth.

Facilitators

Aiki Arro

Aiki is like a little sunshine. She is always proactive, helpful and smiling 😊 But she is also someone who has had a lot of different experiences during her short life. Aiki has been on an exchange in Hungary teaching English. She also has a history of double-leadership in talent management and external events fields, and will get the most awesome experience next term while leading AIESEC in Tallinn as the president.

Patrick Noronha

Patrick (or simply Pat, as everybody calls him) started his AIIESEC career back home in Canada, first in Toronto then Montreal. After four years in AIIESEC Canada, Pat decided that he wanted to develop his skills in this area even further, and he left for a faraway land called Estonia, where he became the Vice President of Human Resources of AIIESEC in Estonia. But he had discovered some amazing people and places in Estonia, which made him want to stay. Over the years he has been the heart and soul of the international group of people that is surrounding AIIESEC Tallinn and he recently received the "Distinguished Alumnus Award" of AIIESEC in Estonia for his outstanding contribution to this organization over the years. Pat has been through some pretty intense and awesome experiences in his not-so-long life, so when he speaks, pay attention - he has some amazing stories to share! ;)

Uku Talmar

Uku is a freelance trainer and writer and is currently serving his third term as a member of the board of NGO Active Estonian Youth. He mainly does trainings and simulations for different organizations and currently specialises in projects related to gamification and creativity in development and education. He was a top 10 speaker in the Estonian High School debating championships in 2008 and won Grand Prix' from the Saaremaa theatre festival for the play "Girl Power" with "Kullo theatre school". With his friend Ott Ojamets he wrote "Two Guys Write", a collection of short fiction.

Birgit Jürgenson

Our sweet and beloved Birgit keeps the warmth in AIESEC. She joined it 3 years ago because she wanted to develop herself in a practical way and surround herself with active, ambitious, positive-minded people. Birgit started as a team member in an educational project. Later, she became the team leader of Trainings Team and now she is part of the Executive Board of AIESEC Tallinn, responsible for Talent Management and developing the members.

Birgit invites you to Spring Seminar:
"It's totally awesome and You won't want to miss this!"
